Delta Air Lines Begins New Nonstop Service From Louisville to Boston

Region Gains Nonstop Access to Another Top Business Destination!

Louisville, KY (September 6, 2007) – Daily nonstop jet service between Louisville, KY, and Boston, MA, began today when DL flight #5446 touched down at Louisville International Airport. The service, operated by Delta Connection carrier Comair, is the first scheduled nonstop route offered between Louisville and Boston in the sixty-year history of the airport.

“A direct flight between Louisville and Boston has, for years, been the most requested service that we lacked at Louisville International,” Mayor Jerry Abramson said. “Now, we can offer it. It’s a big deal for frequent travelers, a big deal for the business community – and a win for all customers who use our great airport.”

“With the addition of this nonstop service to Boston, Louisville International now provides nonstop service to 29 destinations—more destinations than at anytime in the airport’s history,” said Skip Miller, Executive Director for Louisville International Airport.

“Delta is Boston’s largest airline in terms of destinations served and we are pleased to add Louisville to the long list of cities where our customers enjoy nonstop service to and from Boston,” said Anne Winkelmann, Team Leader - Network Analysis for Delta.
